
International Trade Fairs

There are many trade fairs, exhibitions and conferences held around the world annually. Their purpose is to showcase the latest goods and services on offer, and can be either industry specific or provide a broader coverage across a range of products and services, providing an avenue to display products to thousands of potential buyers. They also provide a valuable way to make international industry contacts.

Trade fairs are a great way to either find potential suppliers, or break into and establish a market presence in a new market. We have listed popular and regular trade fairs of interest to members.
